A fight near Guyandotte-Three Hundred of the Second Kentucky Regiment cont Six Hundred Secessionists at the Point of the Bayonet.

[Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial] CAMP WOODRUFF, near Cabell C. H., Va. ) July 14th, 1861.

End. Cou :- You have probably been advised of the great activity of the 3d Kentucky regiment since its putting foot upon the soil of Virginia, an activity which has been attended with such fortunate results that waiting to starve them out begins to look like—fallacy—as it certainly is in western Virginia. My last hurried letter left us in occupancy of the troublous town of Guvandotte. We remained there but a few hours, a number of companies moving out to Camp Crittenden (as it was christened) the same afternoon the town was captured. Camp Crittenden was situated on the Charleston road, about two miles from Guyandotte, and was pitched on the wheat field of Col. Everett, now in the secession army. His mansion adjoined the field, and his family was one of the few of that persuasion that did not flee when we landed.

It was proposed to make the attack at early daylight, but the deep silence observed along the route, together with the halts to send forward scouting parties, deferred their coming into sight of the enemy until the sun was two hours high. When they did catch a first glance, if there had been any fear in their composition, it would have overpowered him at once. The rebels were drawn up in line of battle on the brow of a high hill, apparently inaccessible on alt sides, and commanding a view for two miles around of a magnificent level plain, with all its roads in full sight, until they dwindled into the distant forests.

Near the base of the hill wound the Guyandotte river, and within pistol shot of their position was the only bridge which spanned it from the side on which we were advancing. Our brave boys took but one glance

and passed on. As they neared the bridge, they discovered a large body of cavalry on the road that wound around the base of the hill on which the enemy was ranged, retreating and deviding in order to intercept our flight-a natural interference, but a matter of opin ion nevertheless. The rebels very considerately reserved their fire until the head of our column had set foot in the bridge, and then they fired a terriflic volley, killing one man instantly, and wounding a number of

To escape this terrible shelving fire, our men were double-quicked into the covered , where the hullets pelted, pattered and whistled like a leaden hail storm. They rushed onward, however, until they halted with such a sudden shock, that it sent the whole column into disorder. The planks of the bridge had been removed on the opposi e side, and the mule on which the guide was mounted had fallen through, and he Atthebate United States Fin in Chicago, for Brist barely escaped sharing its destruction, by clinging to the timbers,

The rebels encouraged by our delay at the fearful impediment, broke into wild shouts and cheers. Fired by their assurance of victory, our boys could be restrain ed no longer; they answered with a terrif fic yell, some ran to the path-holes of the bridge, and discharged their muskets at the foe, and company A, led by Captain Brown, made a dash in single file across the bare stringers and rafters of the bridge, followed by company D (Woodward Guard), and the remaining companies. As they emerged from the bridge, the rebels flanked and changed front from the mouth of the bridge to the road which encircles the base of the hill, and sent another hitter volley at on men, which, luckily, was aimed too high, and did but little havoe. Our men by this time had all cleared the bridge, in total disorder, but blazing with excitement, yelling and leaping ahead like madmen. They turned suddenly up the side of the hill at a charge bayonets, and literally dragging themselves up by bushes and jutting turi, they cleared it in a few minutes, tushed at the enemy, who had, as they commenced their ascent, fired again with effect. It was their last volley. As the glistening bayonets gained the brow of the hill and met their wavering gaze, and those yells continued, which meant victory if there had been a thousand opposed, the enemy sway ed for a moment, a leap was made from their rear and flank, and then the whole body scattered like sparks from a pin-wheel, down the rear of the hill, streaming in every direction in the fields below, at full speed, with white faces, and an impulse of feet which I heard compared to the fright of a hundred horses in a conflagration. Our men were too breathless for pursuit, but they cheered as men who have couquered only can cheer, and planted inmediately the stars and stripes on the summit of the hill.

There was some firing at the retiring foe, and their commander, Col. Mansfield, was hit and fell from his horse, but was immedintely seized and carried off by his companions, as it is supposed others were.-They left but one on the field, an old grayhaired man, whom we are informed was impressed into the service, as many of his companions had been. He was taken care of by our troops, but died in the afternoon.

The victorious battalion, when the rebels had disappeared, marched through the town with banners flying, and band playing airs which the inhabitants probably never hoped to hear again. The Woodward boys planted their flag on the cupola of the court hourse, and seemed to regard as a coincidence, that precisely two months after it was presented it was streaming from the spire in one of the hot beds of secession. The force of the rebels in the engagement was about 600; our detachment consisted exactly of 331 men, about twenty of each of the five companies engaged being left behind on guard duty. The writer can candidly say that the attack and capture of this post was but little short of a miracle. Nothing but the desperate rush up the hill, and the absence of bayonets on the enemy's pieces saved our troops from being slaughtered. The rebels thought (and any inquirer would think the same thing.) that the hill was accessible only from the rear, a Four Doors above the Postofflee, where they will be happy to serve their old customers distance of eleven hundred yards from the bridge and calculated that he the time we could reach that, their flank fire with rifles would thin us out to such an extent that the cavalry could easily finish us; but their fight near Guyandotte-Three Hundred of the Second Kentucky Regiment rout Six Hundred Secessionists at the Point of the Bayonet.

[Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.] CAMP WOODBUFF, near Cabell C. H., Va. ) July 14th, 1861.

Eds. Com:—You have probably been advised of the great activity of the 3d Kentucky regiment since its putting foot upon the soil of Virginia, an activity which has been attended with such fortunate results that waiting to starve them out begins to look like—fallacy—as it certainly is in western Virginia. My last hurried letter left us in occupancy of the troublous town of Guyandotte. We remained there but a few hours, a number of companies moving out to Camp Crittenden (as it was christened) the same afternoon the town was captured. Camp Crittenden was situated on the Charleston road, about two miles from Guy-andotte, and was pitched on the wheat field of Col. Everett, now in the secession army. His mansion adjoined the field, and his famthat did not flee when we landed.

It was proposed to make the attack at early daylight, but the deep silence observed along the route, together with the halts to send forward scouting parties, deferred their coming into sight of the enemy until the sun was two hours high. When they did catch a first glance, if there had been any fear in their composition, it would have overpowered him at once. The rebels were drawn up in line of battle on the brow of a high hill, apparently inaccessible on all sides, and commanding a view for two miles around of a magnificent level plain, with all its roads in full sight, until they dwindled into the distant forests.

Near the base of the hill wound the Guyandotte river, and within pistol shot of their position was the only bridge which spanned it from the side on which we were advancing. Our brave boys took but one glance

and passed on. As they neared the bridge, they discovered a large body of cavalry on the road that wound around the base of the bill on which the enemy was ranged, retreating and dividing in order to intercept our flight-a natural interference, but a matter of opinion nevertheless. The rebels very considerately reserved their fire until the head of our column had set foot in the bridge, and then they fired a terriffic volley, killing one man instantly, and wounding a number of

To escape this terrible shelving fire, our men were double-quicked into the covered bridge, where the hullets pelted, pattered and whistled like a leaden hall storm. They rushed onward, however, until they halted with such a sudden shock, that it sent the whole column into disorder. The planks of the bridge had been removed on the opposite side, and the mule on which the guide was mounted had fallen through, and he harely escaped sharing its destruction, by clinging to the timbers. The rebels encouraged by our delay at the fearful impediment, broke into wild shouts and cheers. Fired by their assu-rance of victory, our boys could be restrained no longer; they answered with a terrif-fic yell, some ran to the path-holes of the bridge, and discharged their muskets at the foe, and company A, led by Captain Brown, made a dash in single file across the bare stringers and rafters of the bridge, followed by company D (Woodward Guard), and the remaining companies. As they emerged from the bridge, the rebels flanked and changed front from the mouth of the bridge to the road which encircles the base of the hill, and sent another bitter volley at our men, which, luckily, was aimed too high, and did but little havoc. Our men by this time had all cleared the bridge, in total disorder, but blazing with excitement, yelling and leaping ahead like madmen. They turned suddenly up the side of the hill at a charge bayonets, and literally dragging themselves up by bushes and justing turf-they cleared it in a few minutes, rushed at the enemy, who had, as they commenced their ascent, fired again with effect. It was their last volley. As the glistening bayonets gained the brown of the hill and met their wavering gaze, and those yells continued, which meant victory if there had been a thousand opposed, the enemy sway ed for a moment, a leap was made from their rear and flank, and then the whole body scattered like sparks from a pin-wheel, down the rear of the hill, streaming in every direction in the fields below, at full view of the property of the propert down the year of the hill, streaming in every direction in the fields below, at full speed, with white faces, and an impulse of feet which I heard compared to the fright of a hundred horses in a conflagration. Our men were too breathless for pursuit, but they cheered as men who have couquered only can cheer, and planted immediately the stars and stripes on the summit of the bill. There was some fixing at the retiring foe,

They left but one on the field, an old gray-haired man, whom we are informed was impressed into the service, as many of his companions had been. He was taken care of by our troops, but died in the afternoon. had disappeared, marched through the town with banners flying, and band playing court hourse, and seemed to regard as a cospire in one of the hot-beds of secession. ment was about 600; our detachment conleft behind on guard duty. The writer can candidly say that the attack and capture of this post was but little short of a miracle. I AM now over 60 years of age. Three years since I became blind from Catrimet in both eyes. So I need to be a since I became blind an attempt to restore my sight by an operation was made in this sity, which was unsuedessful. Hearing of the reputation of Dr. Folsom, as a skillful coulist, I was induced to consult then, though with very little lopes of relief. The doctor proposed an operation, to which I consented, which resulted an almost Perfect Restoration of Sight to one oye. He afterwards performed an operation on the other eye, with mucoses. I can now enjoying the inestinable blessing of good vision, and a much better general state of health than before.

The in the possession of the enemy. It appears that Gen. Tyler's column moved forward, on Thursday, at four o'clock through Centerville to Bull Run, about three miles west for the purpose of reconnoitering and if practicable, getting a force around Manassas Junction upon the Manassas Gap railroad, to turn Gen. Beauregard's flank. The enemy appear to have been fully aware of the object, and the necessity of preventing it, and hence they resisted in large force, opening upon our troops several concealed batteries. The skirmish was severe, resulting in the loss on our side of fifty killed and sixty wounded, and a large loss to the enemy, the number not known. Our troops, not being in sufficient force

Correspondence of the New York Tribune. Washington, July 13, 1861. The heads of department cling as tenaciously to the secession clerks in the departments as though members and senators had not been urging good men and true for the last three months, without avail. When compelled to part with them, not by the solicitations of loyal men, but by the actual departure of the traitors to join the confederate armies, they do it with reluctance and objurgation. A certain high official in one of the departments was recently informed by one of these traitors of his determination to leave for Richmond, whereupon the official, after warm expostulation, said: -'Mr. ---, if I were well enough acquainted with you, I would tell you you were a d-d fool." The clerk left, and is now with the confederates.

Two days ago a gentleman called on a lady whose husband and son are in the treasury department. A lad in the room had a miniature gun with which he was playing, and the caller, thinking to "draw out" the juvenile, remarked: "Well, my little man, I suppose you could shoot a secessionist with your gun." The mother replied with igreat warmth: "No, he can't shoot a secessionist. We don't have any such talk in this house." The husband and other son are still pensioned upon the government, on the plea that "the public business would suffer" if their places were giv-

He inquired of the one who made the request if she desired it for herself, and was told in reply that she did not, but wished it for the lady who accompanied her. "Why, then, does not the faily herself ask for the pass?" said the officer. Upon this the "lady" answered for herself, that she "would scorn to ask for it," and poured out a torrent of abuse, such as only an irate female can. When she had exhausted herself, the officer composedly replied that "he had been reared and had lived in a section where great sespect was paid to the sex, but he must confess that his ideas of what was due to the ladies had received a great shock. Gen. Jim Lane, of Kansas, made a telling speech on the occasion of the presentation by Sen. Foote of the certificate of Gov. ished and elegantly turned sentences in which he remarked upon it. The most elaborate efforts of Sumner could not exceed the finish of his remarks, and for terseness I have seldom heard their equal. His voice and manner, too, while reminding one of the lion-hearted Borderey, were well suited to the dignified presence in which he spoke. The case in question stands as foltimation that he will be appointed to the command. But he has not accepted the nomination and holds no commission. Unan undignified haste to get rid of a political rival. The senator indicated the course which he should take, in these words, which I commend to the attention of all brigadiers appointed or to be appointed during this war: "When the brigade is full, if the men shall express a desire that I should command them then I shall accept the command, for, with all deference to other gentlemen on this floor, I have always believed that, in order that our volunteer regiments should be fought as they are capable of being fought, they should have commanding officers who possess their confidence," Men who have the ability to command do not need to come on to Washington, or should not need to intrigue and use backstairs influence, or come whining, having been repudiated by the people of their own states, and soliciting a Brigadier's commission as a plaster to cover their wounds.

Half the loss is from the Michigan troops, who behaved with magnificent courage, standing calm and unbroken under a pouring haif of shot, and returning the fire up to within pistol shot of the enemy's entrenchments. On the whole, the action creates more enthusiasm than discouragement in the ranks of the army.

At twelve o'clock on the night of the 8th a special vessel arrived from Havana, bearing communication from Consul-General Shufeldt to Capt. McKean, stating that the Sumter had entered the harbor of Cienfuegos with seven American vessels, which she had captured on the south side of the island of Cuba. The Niagara immediately commenced taking in coal at a rapid rate, and was to sail from Key West accompanied by for Cienfuegos, where he hopes to find the Sumter, and seize her or blockade her in the port. > with much pleasure the accounts from St. Louis of Judge Catron's unflinching fidelity to the constitution and union. In his charge to the grand jury, he repudiated the pretended right of a state to secede, and no matter under what pretence, found in arms against the government, are guilty of treason, and should be so dealt with. Some of the would-be martyrs of the Camp Jackson capture, who are at the arsenal in durance, and who applied to Judge Catron for release by habeas corpus, were refused, and must take their chances elsewhere of purging themselves of treason. Judge Catron will be useful just now in Missouri, whither he has gone to hold a district court of the tled definitely—but perhaps not to their entire satisfaction.

> Judge Catron is a citizen of the state of Tennessee, an early friend and associate of Gen. Jackson, by whom, we believe, he was placed on the supreme bench. He has a good share of the old hero's intrepidity, and all of his hatred for treason.

Judgo Catron went recently to Nashville to hold the appointed term of the United States court in Tennessee, after the secession act of the legislature. He was warned by the marshal to desist, or his life would pay the forfeit. The intrepid judge commanded the marshal to do his duty in preparing for and opening the court, and spare himself all care of the judge's life. The marshal then confessed himself afraid to discharge his duty, and flatly refused. And he and other subordinates declined to act and so Judge Catron failed to hold his court stitute themselves judges of the acts of long hence.—N. Y. Times.

One word as to the sermon given us by Dr. Hall, yesterday, at the Epiphany (the place of worship for the British embassy and which may be called "the fashionable where he will establish his head-quarters. | church " of Washington.) The special occasion of the sermon, I understood, was the open refusal of one of the most influential ladies of the congregation to pray for the President-she rising from her knees during the recital of that special prayer, and resuming her posture again at its con-Jefferson City; will encamp outside the clusion, in such a way as to make her dissent universally remarked. The preacher's doctrine was simply that > vate character or policy, or whether we agreed with him or not, or respected, or wished well to him. The text itself, he said, was first written under the reign of the unholiest of Emperors, Nero, who subsequently slew the Apostle himself; and the Doctor took occasion to mention that there was one American President who had been fearfully profane, and another who had been a gother with all other styles of work new to use shameless drunkard, and that both these had been devoutly prayed for, in their time. The obvious inference (that President Lincoln was to be prayed for, on the same ground, simply as an exercise of Christian

the President, as "one in authority," was charity) was in accordance, I was told, with ing of southern birth, and having strong sympathy with the southern cause; but it was strange (if I may record an outsider's impression) that a sermon of just that disparaging tenor should be preached to a congregation of whom one half were officers is uniform serving under Lincoln—the preacher intimating his disapproval, in fact, of the cause for which they were to fight, but inculcating upon them the Christian charity | M. to 714 and 8 P. M. of praying for their mistaken Ruler, notwithstanding ! To explain fully the significancy of Dr. Hall's position on this point, it should be stated that he is a man of more than ordinary ability, and personally so much esteemed as to exercise great social influence, over and above his pustoral authority. The rebel president, when in congress, was a pew holder in his church, and Mrs. Jeff. Davis was a communicant. As I chanced to sit very near the vacant pew, it was ensier than it might otherwise have been to imagine what remembered faces were probably present to the Doctor's eye, as he discoursed, looking in our direction. In contrast with what we know of the nt-

ter intolerance of Union sentiments at the south, it is worth while to record for history this and similar betrayals of southern proclivities among residents in our northern cities, and the more generous indulgence of them. Would a hundred officers have rat in church in Charleston and heard their own president thus covertly disparaged by a clergyman, sceretly a Unionist, though he were at the same time to recommend Day a to be prayed for as a subject for Christian charity 7 But, to be in a city where one's country's cause is openly treated as the unfashionable thing—the beaux and belles of "good society" almost without exception favoring the Crusader, Lieut.-commanding Craven, the enemy-is an experience still more curious than the above. And such I found to be the case in Baltimore. Our 2d regiment, now stationed about two miles from Georgetown, on the road to Fairfax Court House, has suffered some from diarrhea and measles, but is now in good condition for action, save an unfortanate difficulty with its colonel, who has been asked to resign by the commissioned officers, on the ground of inefficiency, but who declines. It is said the matter is to be compromised by his leaving the command in the hands of Col. Peck, returning home on a furlough. Adjutant Hunter, who was not elected in the manner prescribed in the regulations, has given place to Licut. C. K. Denn, of the Grant County Volunteers, who Next Door to the Post Office. has been elected adjutant by the regiment. Gen. #### The News from the Army.

The despatch published yesterday stating that the rebel battery at Bull Run, had been stormed by the Fire Zouaves with a loss of 150, killed and wounded, was untrue. The battery was not stormed at all, but remains in the possession of the enemy. It appears that Gen. Tyler's column moved forward, for the purpose of reconnoitering and if practicable, getting a force around Manassas Junction upon the Manassas Gap railroad, to turn Gen. Beauregard's flank. The enemy appear to have been fully aware of the object, and the necessity of preventing it, and hence they resisted in large force, opening upon our troops several concealed batteries. The skirmish was severe, resulting in the loss on our side of fifty killed and sixty wounded, and a large loss to the enemy, the number not known.

Our troops, not being in sufficient force, consisting chiefly of the Michigan 2d and New York 12th, retired from the contest for the battery, and the enemy ceased firing. The federal troops stood up manfally under the cross-firing of the enemy's batteries, and repulsed a bayonet charge from superior numbers.

There was no battle yesterday, the day being syent in determining the enemy's position, the location of batteries, &c., preparatory to an onward movement to-day or tomorrow.

There was great excitement at Washington, and a large number of members of conmany left that there was little business done in either house.

It can hardly be possible, as is rumored, that Gen. Patterson has permitted Johnston and his forces to leave Winchester and Manassas Gap railroad, while Patterson ed by entreaties and applications and equivwas, on Thursday, within twenty miles of Winchester, where Johnston's army was supposed to be. His scouts ought to have committee on military affairs, is desirons known whether the rabel army was at the to see justice done not only in this but in known whether the rebel army was at the latter place or not.

Manassas Junction to morrow.

Interference of France and England. The telegraph gives us, once in about a from the "special to the New York Herald," that England or France, or both of them attempt to dictate to our government, how it shall put down this rebellion. They must know that any interference on their part would defeat their object in obtaining cotton. Rather than submit to be told by foreigners that we must pursue a particular From previous accounts of Lane I had been policy towards the rebels, we believe our led to expect anything rather than the finpeople would destroy all the cotton in shed and elegantly turned sentences in which he remarked upon it. The most port for its exportation, we would proclaim with blood. Not only this, but France and England themselves would be compelled to prepare for a war which would cost them more than all the cotton that can be raised in the south in ten years would be worth. If these two European powers want the ports of the south opened speedily let them wait the action of the United States government, which alone has authority to deal der these directmentaines, the action of the with this subject; by so doing they will governor is rather premature, and shows an undignified haste to get rid of a political hasten the exportation of cotton,-by interference they will put off the time, perhaps indefinitely.

The item in the telegraph to-day, we do not believe has any real foundation; and its object probably is to produce alarm and irritation on the part of our people towards France and England. The policy of the secessionists from the beginning of the rebellion, has been to embroil us with foreign powers, about cotton, and their efforts are still continued, probably in the shape of such paragraphs as we allude to.

The rebel general, Rains, reported killed in Missouri, was not a military man, but a fussy, dirty politician. He went for Bell and Everett, and was run by the "Union" men of his district against J. S. Phelps in the late election for congress.

From Washington.

Correspondence of the New York Tribune, Washington, July 13, 1861. The heads of department cling as tenne iously to the secession clerks in the departneuts as though members and senators had not been urging good men and true for the last three months, without avail. When compelled to part with them, not by the solicitations of loyal men, but by the actual departure of the traitors to join the confederate armies, they do it with rejuctance and objurgation. A certain high official in one of the departments was recently informed by one of these traitors of his determination to leave for Richmond, whereupon the official, after warm expostulation, said :-Mr. -, if I were well enough acquainted with you, I would tell you you were a d-d fool." The clerk left, and is now with the confederates. Two days ago a gentleman called on a lady whose husband and son are in the treasury department. A lad in the room bad a miniature gun with which he was playing, and the caller, thinking to "draw out" the juvenile, remarked: "Well, my little man, I suppose you could shoot a secessionist with your gan." The mother replied with great warmth: "No, he can't shoot a secessionist. We don't have any shoot a secessionist. We don't have any such talk in this house." The husband and other son are still pensioned upon the government, on the plea that "the public business would suffer" if their places were giv en to new men. The secessionists seem to be blinded by a spirit of impotent rage. An officer informed me yesterday that he was called upon by two ladies, who desired passes to visit Alexandria. He inquired of the one who made the request if she desired it for herself, and was told in reply that she did not, but wished it for the lady who accompanied on Thursday, at four o'clock through Cenher. "Why, then, does not the lady herself terville to Bull Run, about three miles west ask for the pass?" said the officer. Upon this tho "lady" answered for herself, that she "would seorn to ask for it," and poured out a torrent of abuse, such as only an irate female can. When she had exhausted her-self, the officer composedly replied that the had been reared and had lived in a section where great sespect was paid to the sex, but he must confess that his ideas of what was due to the ladies had received a great shock.

The spirit shown by this "lady" is the same as that shown by the "ladies" in Alexandria. They stay shut up in their houses, but as soldiers of the Union pass they actually spit upon them from their windows! The secession mania seems to convert the comen into spiteful furies, and the men into theves and perjurers.

The letters of applicants for various offices reveal singular idiosyncrasics. One writes: "Sir, you will discover that I have ot seceded yet, but if you don't give me a situation soon my clothes will second from off my back, and I shall be as naked as a buzzard." Another, it he gets a place, proposes "to repay the favor out of the proseeds of his first great invention," etc., etc. The tears and entreaties of women sometimes prove effectual, as in the notorious case of Col. Emory. I believe that the secretary of war not only finally opposed the the permission to withdraw his resignation n the first instance, but also his recent reinstatement and promotion. But such influence as I have indicated above was efgress repaired to Manassas yesterday. So fectual in another quarter. In all the attempted vindications of Ernory, that pubished in a communication to the Tribune and others, I have see no satisfactory explanation of the circumstances attending his resignations left in the hands of two or three parties. The vague statement that he "was promoted by private consideraform a junction with Beauregard. It tions alone" does not meet the demands in would require a march of sixty miles on his case. His family influence, however, is the part of Johnston before reaching the strong, and republican senators are besiegocating explanations, in order to secure his

Senator Wilson, the chairman of the the case of other appointments. He ably defended on the floor of the senate yester-A great battle will probably be fought at day the restriction reported by his commiterals. The bill as reported requires their appointment "from the regular line of the army or from the enrolled volunteers," and gives three to each major general and two week, a sensational paragraph, generally to each brigadier. Some opposition was from the "special to the New York Herald." made to this feature, whereupon the senstor replied that "for his own part he would that England or France, or both of them together, are about to interfere in favor of the south, on account of cotton. We better that they should be restricted to the regular line of the army, for he did not wish to have any more such sights as that recently exhibited of a staff clarently stating that the United States government, lieve these two nations know better than to that recently exhibited of a staff, elegantly dressed, making a most soldierly appearance, but on the sound of the enemy's guns incontinently betaking themselves to flight.' Gen. Jim Lane, of Kansas, made a telling speech on the occasion of the presentation by Sen. Foote of the certificate of Gov. Robinson, appointing Stanton his successor. elaborate efforts of Sumner could ceed the finish of his remarks, and for terse freedom to every slave, and cover the south ness I have seldom heard their equal. His voice and manner, too, while reminding one of the lion-hearted Borderev, were well suited to the dignified presence in which he spoke. The case in question stands as follows: Gen. Lane has received from the secretary of war authority to organize and equip a brigade, in Kansas, and also an intimation that he will be appointed to the command. But be has not accepted the rival. The senator indicated the which he should take, in these words, which I commend to the attention of all brigadiers appointed or to be appointed during this When the brigade is full, men shall express a desire that I should command them then I shall accept the command, for, with all deference to other gentlemen on this floor, I have always believed that, in order that our volunteer regiments should be fought as they are capable of being fought, they should have commanding officers who possess their confidence." Men who have the ability to command do not need to come on to Washington, or should not need to intrigue and use back. stairs influence, or come whining, having been repudiated by the people of their own states, and soliciting a Brigadier's commis

A dutchman who keeps a lager beer saloon up town, a day or two since came to the colonel of one of the regiments here and made a complaint in the following

"Garnet," said he, "on last night you see, on my lager beer store, some gumpany, he march into mine store, and he gum in dramp—dramp—'left,' 'left,'—and dey goes on my bar, and de brinciple soldier he say front, un den said :— Give me some lager.' Und I draw the lager, more as sixty glasses, und dey drik dat lager, und den de captain man he say: 'Fall in; fall in; und den I say: 'Where ish my gelt for de lager—my money?' Und de captain man he don't gif no money, and say: 'Left,' dey did left, and I git no money. I don't like such trigs mit mine store und mine lager. Dat ish no good business to 'left,' 'left,' mit mine money. So soon 'left,' 'left,' ish not right."

Special despatch to the Chicago Tribunc.

CENTERVILLE, Va., July 19. A very sharp engagement was fought resterday afternoon by the brigade under Col. Richardson, of Michigan, composed of the 2d and 3d Michigan, the 1st Massachusetts, and the 12th New York regiments. The action occurred at Blackburn Ford, three miles from Manassas, with a heavy force of rebels entrenched in the woods behind three masked batteries. Our troops first opened fire from two rifled cannon, sending out three hundred skirmishers to make out the enemy. Immediately a tre-mendous cross-firing of the batteries was opened, accompanied by thundering volleys musketry. This threw the New York 12th into some confusion, which broke our

After returning to the charge, and finding the enemy in full force and our advance unsupported by a proper artillery and cavalry force, Gen. Tyler, commanding the advanced division, ordered the army to fall back to Centerville, and encamp for the night. He says we have gained all we wanted at that point, as the object of attack was only to make a diversion, and feel the strength of the enemy.

Our reserve is now beginning to arrive, and by Friday night Manassas will be confronted by an army of fifty thousand men. We lost thirty killed, and a few more wounded. Half the loss is from the Michigan troops, who behaved with magnificent courage, standing calm and unbroken under a pouring hail of shot, and returning the fire up to within pistol shot of the enemy's entrenchments. On the whole, the action creates more enthusiasm than discouragement in the ranks of the army.

St. Louis, July 19.

deprecating the disturbances of the last ten days, had resolved to suppress them. The proclamation closes as follows: "I thereore warn all persons taken in arms against the federal government, who attempt to commit depredations upon public or private property, or who molest unoffending and peaceful citizens, that they will be dealt deals with in the most summary manner, without awaiting civil process."

WASHINGTON, July 19. Important dispatches have been received by Gen. Scott from Gen. McClellan, dated at Beverly, July 19, indicating another bat-tle in Western Virginia. Six hundred of Wise's men had been defeated and driven out of Barbourville by the second Kentucky regiment. The loss on either side is not

S. soldiers, from the Indian country, was intercepted and searched by him a few days since, and a quantity of ammunition, wag ons, &c., taken possession of Jennison gave his receipt for the articles seized, to be held subject to the order of the U.S. government. HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 19. Gen. Patterson, on routing the enemy from Bunker's Hill, proceeded direct to Charlestown, on the line of a railroad leading from Winchester to Harper's Ferry. He intended to move one division of his army from this point south to Berryville, on the Leesburg turnpike, hoping thereby to cut off the retreat of Gen. Johnston in that direction, and with another division march direct on Winchester. But on arriving at Charlestown, General Patterson received information that led him to alter his plans.

It now appears that the enemy are strongv intrenched at Winchester, and are determined to make a stand there. The entire force will therefore be kept together, and, moving with extreme caution, ment.

The movement for this purpose will be nade to-morrow.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 19. A seargeant belonging to Capt. Cook's company of Home Guards, arrived at Syracuse this evening, reports that Capt. WASHINGTON, July 18. Gen. Mansfield has issued an order that fugitive slaves, under no pretext whatever, shall be permitted to reside or be harbored either in the quarters or camps of the troops, nor allowed to accompany the army on its march.

CENTERVILLE, Va., July 19.
Last evening the advance of Gen. Tyler's division—the first of the grand army—in pushing forward toward Buckland, fell in with a masked battery of the enemy, and strong force of their troops, at a place called Bull's Run.

A sharp engagement ensued, the 1st Massachusetts sustaining the brunt. The enemy opened a galling fire of shot and shell-the first intimation our troops and of any immediate danger.

One of our batteries of light artillery was quickly brought into action, and for thirty minutes returned the fire that was received.

Col. Richardson's brigade, the fourth, composed of Michigan, Massachusetts and New York troops, was thrown forward as skirmishers, which had the effect of waking up several other masked batteries.

One on the opposite side of the river opened on our lines with shell, causing some injuries to citizens who were in our rear, but killing no one. The cannonading was kept up quite oriskly until dark. The 2d Michigan, 12th New York, 69th

New York, and Capt. Brackett's company of Second Cavalry were the principal for-ces engaged. The heaviest loss was sustoired by the 12th New York. Our loss is 34 killed and 53 wounded. At dark the firing ceased, and Gen. Ty-er made a requisition on Gen. McDowell for reinforcements. The enemy was largely reinforced during the evening.

This morning the two forces remained quiet, in clear sight of each other, and in easy shooting distance. They have lain in this position all day, each party strengthening its position, but neither caring to make aggression.
It is thought our shot took fearful effect on the enemy yesterday. With the aid of spy glasses they can be seen burying their dead, of whom there seems to be a large number. After the rebels had been reinforced they charged upon our lines with fixed bayonets, but were most gallantly repulsed by our This point is strongly contested because of its importance as a protection to the en-emy's rear. Our forces will charge upon them to-morrow, and probably take the lace by storm. In the meantime it is not at all improbable that Col. Heintzleman's division, the third, has moved on Manassas to night. It is so reported in camp. If they have not moved to-night, they will do so in the mor-

Bull's Run, Va., July 19-4 P.M. From careful inquiries and personal observation, the number wounded on the federal side amounts to 60, and killed 40. There has been no firing to-day.

The confederates are still in possession of their principal battery. With a spyglass large bodies of confederates were seen moving at right and left, apparently finding their base line of opera-

Indications are that there will not be a general forward movement before Sunday norning, unless the enemy shall provoke

Y. Illustrated News, left Hampton without permission on a scout.— At half past four this A. M. the party were surprised in the woods a short distance beyond New Market Bridge by 20 robels. Rawling was instantly killed by a bullet through his head. Johnson and Shurtleff were also seen to fall, and they must have been carried off as prisoners. The others

There are not 10,000 troops in Norfolk and vicinity. He says the confederates felt sure of success, and they are determined to fight to the last extremity. There was much depression on account

Upon representation of Col. Frank P. Blair, Jr., Col. Seigel, the hero of the recent great battle in Missouri, has been made a Brigadier General. Washington, July 20.

Special to Post.—It is believed another battle will not be fought at Bull's Run till Sunday or Monday morning. The rebel force at that point has been largely increased, and it is supposed that Johnston's col-umn from Western Virginia has formed a junction with Beauregard's forces. The Markets.

By the arrival of the U.S. steamer Mas sachusetts, commander Smith, information was received by flag-officer Mervine, lying off Fort Pickens, that the privateer Su had escaped from the mouth of the Missis and escaped from the mount of the missis-sippi river, on the 30th inst., while the Brooklyn was overhauling one of John Bull's merchantmen. The Brooklyn had got further away from the pass than was usual, when her officers discovered a vessel under full head of steam, coming down the river. The Brooklyn immediately put about with the view of heading off the vessel, but was too late, and so the Sumter escaped -The Niagara immediately made ready for sea, and sailed from Fort Pickens on the 3d, cruising off Cuba for three days, but her coal falling short, she put into Key West for a supply, on the Sth.

At twelve o'clock on the night of the 8th special vessel arrived from Havana, bearcommunication from Consul-General Shufeldt to Capt. McKean, stating that the Sumter had entered the harbor of Cienfuegos with seven American vessels, which she had captured on the south side of the island of Cuba. The Niagara immediately commenced taking in coal at a rapid rate, and was to sail from Key West accompanied by the Crusader, Lieut. commanding Craven, for Cienfuegos, where he hopes to find the umter, and seize her or blockade her in the port. It is my opinion, however, that the Sumter has already left, and the next we shall hear is that she has captured one of our California steamers.

A LOYAL JUDGE.—The country will read with much pleasure the accounts from St. Louis of Judge Catron's unflinching fideli y to the constitution and union. In his charge to the grand jury, he repudiated the pretended right of a state to secede, and held that all citizens of the United States, no matter under what pretence, found in arms against the government, are guilty of reason, and should be so dealt with. Some of the would be martyrs of the Camp Jack son capture, who are at the arsenal in du rance, and who applied to Judge Catron for release by habeas corpus, were refused, and must take their chances elsewhere of purging themselves of treason. Judge Catron will be useful just now in Missouri, whither he has gone to hold a district court of the United States. Many mooted questions among the traitors in that state may be settled definitely—but perhaps not to their entire satisfaction.

Judge Catron is a citizen of the state of ennessee, an early friend and associate of Gen. Jackson, by whom, we believe he was placed on the supreme bench. He has a good share of the old hero's intrepidity, and all of his hatred for treason.

Judge Catron went recently to Nashville to hold the appointed term of the United States court in Tennessee, after the secession act of the legislature. He was warned by the marshal to desist, or his life would pay the forfeit. The intrepid judge comof every description, and enjoining respect for persons and property, and stating that the heaviest penalties would be visited upon them for the infringement of this order. manded the marshal to do his duty in prehe and other subordinates declined to act and so Judge Catron failed to hold his cour in Tennessee. But he will hold it there not long hence.—N. Y. Times.

Gen. Butler learning the fact, has seized her again for a second breach of the blockade, and for endering assistance to the enemy. - Cor. N. Y. World.

The cotton crop of the province of Oran n Algiers, will be about one hundred and wenty-four tons this year. In Jamaica here are also most encouraging prospects, he Jamaica cotton company reporting that the first pods of Sea Island cotton, on trees planted last November, have burst, In Australia, also, efforts are being made develope the growing capabilities of the country and it is proposed to form companies for that purpose, who will offer inducements to German emigrants in the shape of free passages and a bonus of £10 upon every bale exported for the next two years, and £5 for three years afterwards.

A SPLENDID PEROBATION.—The Hon Joseph Holt concluded a glorious speech in Louisville, on Saturday evening last, with the following fervent appeal:-"Even as with the Father of us all I would plead for salvation, so, my country-men upon my very knees, I would plead with you for the life, aye for the life of our great and benificent institutions. But if the traitor's knife, now at the throat of the republic is to do its work, and this governnent is fated to add yet another to that long line of sepulchres which whiten the high way of the past, then my heartfelt prayer to God is, that it may be written in history, that the blood of its life was not found upon

The preacher's doctrine was simply that the President, as "one in authority," was to be prayed for, anyhow, whatever his private character or policy, or whether agreed with him or not, or respected, or wished well to him: The text itself, he said, was first written under the reign of the unholiest of Emperors, Nero, who subsequently slew the Apostle himself; and the Doctor took occasion to mention that there was one American President who had been fearfully profane, and another who had been a shameless drunkard, and that both these had been devoutly prayed for, in their time.

The obvious inference (that President

Lincoln was to be prayed for, on the same ground, simply as an exercise of Christian charity) was in accordance, I was told, with the supposed sentiments of Dr. Hall, he being of southern birth, and having strong sympathy with the southern cause; but it New York, July 20.

gregation of which they were to fight, but including upon them the Christian charity of praying for their mistaken Ruler, notwithstanding.

To explain fully the significancy of Dr. Hall's position on this point, it should be stated that he is a man of more than ordinary ability, and personally so much esteemed as to exercise great social influence, over and above his pastoral authority. The rebel president, when in congress, was a pew holder in his church, and Mrs. Jeff. Davis was a communicant. As I chanced to sit very near the vacant pew, it was easier than it might otherwise have been to magine what remembered faces were prob ably present to the Doctor's eye, as he discoursed, looking in our direction. In contrast with what we know of the utter intolerance of Union sentiments at the south, it is worth while to record for history this and similar betrayals of southern proclivities among residents in our northern cities, and the more generous indulgence of them. Would a hundred officers have sat in church in Charleston and heard their own president thus covertly disparaged by a clergyman, secretly a Unionist, though be were at the same time to recommend Day a to be prayed for as a subject for Christian charity?

But, to be in a city where one's country's cause is openly treated as the unfashionable thing—the beaux and belies of "good so-ciety" almost without exception favoring the enemy-is an experience still more curious than the above. And such I found to be the case in Baltimore. Our 2d regiment, now stationed about two miles from Georgetown, on the road to Fairfax Court House, has suffered some from diarrhea and measles, but is now in good condition for action, save an unfortunate difficulty with its colonel, who has been asked to resign by the commissioned officers, on the ground of inefficiency, but who declines. It is said the matter is to be compromised by his leaving the command in the hands of Col. Peck, returning home on a furlough. Adjutant Hunter, who was not elected in the manner prescribed in the regulations, has given place to Lieut. C. K. Dean, of the Grant County Volunteers, who Next Door to the Post Office has been elected adjutant by the regiment. Gen. King is here, and it is hoped when the other regiments come on he may be appointed brigadier in command .- Cor. Free

An ordinance to build sidewalks in front of lots 85 and 86, in the 2d ward, lying south of the railroad track, was introduced and read the first time.

The treasurer's monthly report was referred to the finance committee.

Constable Robertson was instructed to enforce the ordinance against the discharge of firearms and fireworks within the city limits, and the ordinance requiring the registering of dogs. Adjourned.

A Survey in Came.—The supper given by the ladies of Dane county to the regiments in Camp Randall was a gay affaira grand holiday jubilee. The proceedings, according to the published reports, must have been a lively episode in the monotony of a camp life, and could not be otherwise than well enjoyed by all who participated in it. Many of the companies prepared tasteful decorations, that of the Janesville Light Guard being the elevation of an immense circle, in the center of which was the Wisconsin coat of arms, badger and all. This was a most elaborate piece of work, showing superior taste and skill,-The badger, like all the devices about the ground, was represented with publics, and presented a very four animal. Around the circle were the words "Jamesville Light Guard. Deeds not words." The whole was tastefully decorated with nots, green and dry.

Lieut. Gov. Noble presented a banner to each regiment on behalf of the state. A "dance on the green," in the evening, concluded the ceremonies.

Many a brave heart will remember that supper, when the stirring events of an active campaign shall take the place of the peaceful duties of Camp Randall.

WOODRUFF'S Patent Portable

BAROMETER.

Cheapness, Accuracy, Simplicity, Durability, Portability and Brauty of Finish Umbined. INVENTED BY

L. WOODRUFF. for many years Practical Meteorologist of the SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE.

It Tells you when to expect Rain! It Tells you when to expect Fair Weather!

It Tells you when to expect Wind! It tells you your height above the level of the sea, or as compared with your neighbors!

Its use will add five per cent to the value of your crops by enabling you to secure them unmined by storms!
In England and on the Continent, where art and science, as applied in aid of labor, are in some branches at least far ahead of our own country, the Barometer is to be found in the hands of almost every husbandman.

as that of the clock.

Experience shows that wherever the Barometer has has been introduced in this country, it is equally substactory. In fact it is a necessity in our proverbally variable climate, for in Wisconsin alone millions of busheds of grain have been lost through the Lock of some reliable means of foretelling the weather. Depending as it does upon the well known natural law that no atmospheric change can occur without destroying its equilibrium, thus producing a change in its density and weight, which, by its artion upon the sensitive surface of the mercury, is infallably indicated by the rise or fall of the column, it will at once be seen that when properly constructed, the slightest change in the weather will be preceded by a change in the Barometer. eter.

Schools should not consider their apparatus complete without it.
We claim for this instrument the following merits in

eter extant.
21. Its portability. A great difficulty in obtaining these instruments heretofore has been that they couldnot be transported, its extreme delicity of construction rendering it necessary to be made and adjusted in the place where need; but by a simple arrangement this instrument can be rendered in a moment perfectly port-able, so that it can be subject to the roughest usage without injury.

3d. Its durability. No wood or leather is used about the cistern, which is whally of east hon, forming the most durable instrument of the kind possible.

An order for $40 on the first ward fund was directed to be issued to Martin Baron in payment of work done in said ward. H. A. Patterson was appointed police justice during the absence of H. N. Comstock. Several accounts were presented and re ferred.

The fire department committee were instructed to ascertain the amount of repairs needed on engine house No. 2, with power to make a contract for such repairs.

An ordinance to build sidewalks in front of lots 85 and 85, in the 2d ward, lying lon, or, it possible, at St. George. south of the railroad track, was introduced and read the first time.

The treasurer's monthly report was referred to the finance committee.

Constable Robertson was instructed to enforce the ordinance against the discharge of firearms and fireworks within the city limits, and the ordinance requiring the registering of dogs. Adjourned.

A Supper in Camp.—The supper given by the ladies of Dane county to the regiments in Camp Randall was a gay affaira grand boliday jubilee. The proceedings, according to the published reports, must have been a lively episode in the monotony of a camp life, and could not be otherwise than well enjoyed by all who participated in it. Many of the companies prepared tasteful decorations, that of the Janesville Light Guard being the elevation of an immense circle, in the center of which was the Wisconsin coat of arms, badger and all. This was a most elaborate piece of I shall have near 200 or 1,000 prisoners to work, showing superior taste and skill. take care of when Col. Pegram comes in-The badger, like all the devices about the ground, was represented with pubbles, and presented a very fair animal. Around the circle were the words "Janesville Light Guard. Deeds not words." The whole was tastefully decorated with nuts, green and dry.

Lieut. Gov. Noble presented a banner to each regiment on behalf of the state. A " dance on the green," in the evening, concluded the ceremonies.

Many a brave heart will remember that supper, when the stirring events of an active campaign shall take the place of the peaceful duties of Camp Randall.

WHAT GENERAL M'CLELLAN ACCOMPISHED IN THREE DAYS.

NO. ONE.

BATTLE OF RICH MOUNTAIN. HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF OHIO, ). RICH MOUNTAIN, Va., July 12-9 A. M.

Colonel E. D. Townsend:—
We are in possession of all the enemy's works up to a point in sight of Beverly. We have taken all of his guns, a very large amount of wagons, tents, etc.—every thing that he had. A large number of prisoners were also taken, many of whom are wounded, and several of whom are officers. The enemy lost many killed. We have lost in all perhaps twenty killed and forty wounded, of whom all but two or three belong to the column under General Rosencraus, which turned the position of the enemy.— The mass of the rebels escaped through the woods, entirely disorganized. Among the prisoners is Dr. Taylor, formerly of the ar-Colonel Pegram was in command of General Rosencrans' column left camp yesterday moraing, and marched eight miles through the mountains, reaching the turnpike two or three miles in the rear of the enemy, and defeated an advance force and the enemy, and defeated an advance force and the enemy. captured a couple of guns. I had a posi-tion ready for twelve guns near the main camp, and as the guns were moving up it was ascertained that the enemy had retreated.

I am now pushing on to Beverly. A part of General Rosenerans troops are now within three miles of it.

Within three miles of it.

Our success is complete, and almost bloodless. The behavior of our troops in action, and towards the prisoners, is admirable.

G. B. MCCLELLAN, Major General Commanding.

NO. TWO. THE OCCUPATION OF BEVERLY. BEVERLY, July 13, 1861.

Col E. D. Townsend, Washington, D. C.: The success of today is all that I could desire. We captured six brass cannon, of which one is rifled, and all the enemy's camp equipage and transportation, even to his cups. The number of tents will probabis cups. The number of tents will probably reach two hundred, and more than sixty wagons. Their killed and wounded will amount to fully one hundred and fifty, with at least one hundred prisoners, and more coming in constantly. I know already of ten officers killed and prisoners. Their retreat was complete. I occupied Beverly by a rapid march. Garnett abandoned his camp early this morning, leaving much of his equipage. He came within a few miles of Beverly, but our rapid march turned him back in great confusiou, and he is now result accross. back in great confusion, and he is now retreating on the road to St. George.

Gen. Morris is to follow him up closely. I have telegraphed for the two Pennsylva-nia Regiments at Cumberland to join Gen. Hill at Rowlesburg. The General is concentrating all his troops at Rowlesburg, and Green, will cut off Garnett's retreat near West Un-Calonie

I may say that we have driven out some ten thousand troops, strongly intrenched, with the loss of eleven killed and thirty five wounded. Provisions returns found here show Garnett's force to have been ten thousand men. They were Eastern Virginians, Georgiaus, Tennesseeans, and, I think, Carclinians. To morrow I can give full detail, as to prisoners, &c. I trust that Gen. Cox has by this time drawn Wise out the Kanawha Valley. In that case I shall have accomplished the object of liberating Western Virginia. I hope the General in Chief will approve of my operations.

G. B. McClellan, Major-General, Department of Obio.

NO. THREE. THE SURRENDER OF COL. PEGRAM. HEADQUARTERS,

BEVERIAY, Va., July 13-P. M. Col. E. D. Townsend, Washington, D. C.:
I have received from Col. Pegram propositions for the surrender, with his officers. and remnant of his command—say 600 men. They are said to be extremely peni-tent, and determined never again to take: up arms against the general government. The latest accounts make the loss of the rebels in killed some 150.

G. B. McClelian. Maj. Gen. Department of Ohio.

NO. FOUR. THE BATTLE OF ST. GEORGE. HUTSONVILLE, Va., July 14, 1861.

Col. E. D. Townsend, Assistant Adj. Gen. General Garnett and his forces have been routed and his baggage and one gun taken. His army are completely demoralized.—Gen. Garnett was killed while attempting to rally his forces at Carrackford, near St.

George. We have completely annihilated the encmy in Western Virginia.
Our loss is but thirteen killed and not nore than forty wounded, while the enemy's loss is not far from two hundred killed, and the number of prisoners we have taken will amount to at least one thousand. We have captured seven of the enemy's guns in all A portion of Garnett's forces retreated, but I look for-their capture by Gen. Hill, who is in hot pursuit. The troops that Garnett had under his command are said to be the crack regiments of Eastern Virginia, aided by Georgians, Tennesseeans and Carolinians.

Our success is complete, and I firmly be-lieve that secession is killed in this section of the country. GEORGE B. MCCLELLAN.

Major General U. S. A. Potsonen.-The family of our townsman. D. Casey, esq., were yesterday poisoned quite seriously by enting mushrooms. Mr.

Casey was fortunately absent trying a case, and thus escaped injury.

Medical aid was immediately summoned ed out of danger .- Wankesha Freeman.

Only shunning the strong To be shunned by the proud. "But a penny," her hand was upraised, While her eyes were cast down; She was modest enough to be praised

In her shabby old gown; So I gave, as before I too oft may have given. She said this, and no more-"There's no begging in beavon."

S. R. S. Janesville, July, 1661. GEN. McDowell .-- The New York Times Washington correspondent writes as follows:

It is finally determined that the command of the troops advancing from this vi-cinity shall continue with Gen. McDowell. A determined effort was made to give his command to a major general, but thanks to the prompt and decisive protest of the press, the calamity was avoided. It needs but a glance at Gen. McDowell to discover his fitness for commanding men and to direct the movements of an army. He is a thorough soldier—conversant with all the theories of his calling, and having experi ence of actual service. He has that com-plete command of both the out-lines and details of his command, which alone can in-sure success. If he can once get beyond the reach of red tape and routine, he ival the brilliant achievements of Lvon. Sigel and McClellan. I hope he is to have opportunities for action. The labor he has endured in organizing the force now under his command, deserves the reward of op-field of battle a soldier's laurels. In all but one arm-cavalry-the army under Gen. McDowell is most splendidly appointed. It is composed of New York, Pennsylvania, New England, Michigan, New Jersey, Minnesota and Wisconsin troops, and in these regiments are men of all nationalities-men whose nationalities will conduce to a determined rivalry of val or. In front of these volunteers are heavy sections of flying artillery, (six and twelve-pounders,) and some 3,000 regulars, including 600 marines and five companies of cavalry. Thus composed, equipped, provisioned and officered, what is to prevent this overwhelming force from sweeping over the ob-structions at Manassas that the rebels have raised to defend their rebel government? Nothing but formula and waiting to dot i's and cross t's. Let us hope that it will break loose, and by its great weight gather that momentum which will prevent its arrest until it has fulfilled its destiny, and swept reportunity-the opportunity to win on the bellion from the Potomac to the Gulf. PIRACY .-- As we have always supposed would be the case, it turns out that Jeff Davis' privateers are no respecters of persons. The cargo of sugar on board the John Walsh was shipped and owned by a Spanish house, and a certificate of the English consul at Trinidad to these facts was shown to the pirate captain, who thought to destroy the evidence by carrying it off. It is time for Spain to be looking out for pirates. This occurrence fully establishes the character of these marauders as pirates beyond the shade of a doubt.-Boston Journal.

for many years Practical Meteorologist of the SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE.

It Tells you when to expect Rain! It Tells you when to expect Fair Weather!

It Tells you when to expect Wind:

It tells you when to expect Wind:

It tells you your height above the level of the sea, or as compared with your neighbors!

Its use will add five per cent to the value of your crops by enabling you to secure them uninjured by storms!

In England and on the Continent, where art and science, as applied in aid of labor, are in some branches at least for ahead of our own country, the Barometer is to be found in the hands of almost every husbandman. Its convenience and utility are just as well recognized as that of the clock.

Experience shows that wherever the Barometer has has been introduced in this country, it is equally satisfactory. In fact it is a necessity in our proverhially variable climate, for in Wisconain alone millions of bushels of grain have been lest through the lack of some reliable means of foretelling the weather. Depending as it does upon the well known natural law than no atmospheric change can occur without destroying its equilibrium, thus producing a change in its densitive surface of the mercury, is infallibly indicated by the rise or fall of the column, it will at once be seen that when properly constructed, the slightest change in the weather. While to the farmer it is indispensable, oftentimes weather will be preceded by a change in the Barometer.

While to the farmer it is indispensable, oftentimes saving many times its cost in a single day, to the painter, builder, master carpenter, hetck-monder, and all other out-door workmen and thechanics, it is of searce-by less importance; and in short, there is no class in community to whom it would not sooner or later save many times its expense. Schools should not consider their apparatus complete without it.

We claim for this instruments of the kind:

Jet. Its cheapness. Until recently the Barometer has been so difficult of construction and so could as to pince it beyond the reach of all but the wealthy; but this instrument is sold so law as to be within the means of all, being by fir the cheapner reliable Barometer extant.

2d. Its portability. A great difficulty in obtaining these instruments heretofore has been that they could not be transported, its extreme delicacy of construction rendering it necessary to be made and adjusted in the place where used; but by a simple atranspense this instrument can be subject to the reughest usage without injury.

3d. Its durability. No wood or leather is used.

able, so that it can be subject to the roughest usage-without injury.

3d. Its durability. No wood or leather is used about the elstern, which is wholly of cast iron, forming the most durable instrument of the kind possible.

4th. It is a Mercurial Cistern Barometer, which is the only form endorsed by the highest scientific author-ity. The ordinary cheap Barometers and all Amerdal or dial-facel Barometers have been condemned as un-reliable by the U.S. Coast Survey, and Smithsonia In-stitute, Washington.

reliable by the U.S. Coast Survey, and Smithsonian in-stitute, Washington.

5th. Its simplicity. While it combines with all the real improvements that have been given to the instru-ment for two centuries, other and valuable improve-ments possessed by no other, it is the simplicit possible form of Barometer.

6th. It is not affected by the change of temperature as are the Union and other Barometers, (thus rendering it necessary to adjust them, askey time an observation is taken, and then it is only an approximate one) but is noted upon solely by the different degrees of density of weight of the air, as affected by various atmospheric phenomens.

my stock of from forty to fifty head of cattle and horses, with one of May's Patent Pumps. Well 70 feet deep, last 30 feet drilled. I can find no fault with this pump, and use it in place of another kind that was very often out of repair. Being composed of few and strong pieces, and built on scientific principles, I think they must be R. W. SCHENCK. very durable. Bradford, Rock county, Wis., January 29th, 1861.

I supply with water 690 sheep, some 60 head of cattle and 10 head of horses, with May's Patent Pump. Its great strength, apparent durability and above all the great amount of water it raises in a short time, and its easy working, gives it with me a decided preference over any other pump in the market. C. M. CLARK.

Whitewater, Walworth Co., Wis., Jan. 31st, 1801. Since the 1st of October last we have been using one of May's Patent Pumps, and it gives us entire satisfaction. Our well is 126 feet deep and the pump is worked by horse power or by hand. In addition to pumping water for stock and farm purposes, we use large quantities for our Brewery. REEVES & WADDLE. Middleton, Dane county, Wis., Jan. 22d, 1881. I am using one of May's Patent Pumps in place of deep well pump of another kind, that was often out of order and worked hard. Well 122 feet deep, 72 feet drilled in solid rock, and pump placed 101 feet from surface. Its great strength and simplicity pleases me, and am surprised and gratified with the large amount of water raised with little labor, 0 to 8 full strokes of the lever filling a bucket. I deem it one of the most valuable improvements of the age for raising water. JOHN TRACY. Center, Rock county, Wis., Feb. 27th, 1861.

Pumps, With Engines. I am using one of May's Patent Pumps and Self-Regulating Wind Engine (or Mill) on one of my farms near Janesville. Well 83 feet deep. Pump and mill used together, or may be separated in a moment. One to two hours daily is sufficient to pump water for my stock. Also, the pump works very easy by hand and is the first one, after trying different kinds, that gives me entire satisfaction. Having no bolts, packing, suction pipe, or pumping rods, and being made heavy and strong, think they must be very durable. Janesville, Jan. 11th, 1861. I am using a wind engine, and pump of May's pat ent in a well 65 feet deep. I deem them very valuable improvements, and agree with Mr. Hockins in thenhove expressed opinion. I had been using a Seneca Falls nump that did not answer my purpose. WM. SCHENOK. Bradford, Rock Co., Wis., Jan. 24th, 1861.

Engines.

Rock Terrace, Wis., Feb. 6th, 1861. Since November 1853, I have been using one of May's Patent Wind Engines, pumping water from a well 166

feet deep. The Engine is a powerful one, often pumping fifty barrels of water per day. It stands 110 feet from the well and the power is communicated from the Engine to the well, underground. I deem these Engines of great value, saving a vast amount of bard manual labor, and as their merits are understood, think they must come into general use. These pumps and engines have taken first premiums when exhibited in competition at state and county fairs.

Splendid Achievement.

A fight near Guyandotte-Three Hundred of the Second Kentucky Regiment rout Six Hundred Secessionists at the Point of the Bayonet.

[Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.] CAMP WOODRUFF, near Cabell C. H., Va. )
July 14th, 1861.
Eps. Com:—You have probably been advised of the great activity of the 3d Kentucky regiment since its putting foot upon the soil of Virginia, an activity which has been attended with such fortunate results that waiting to starve them out begins to look like—fallacy—as it certainly is in western Virginia. My last hurried letter left us in occupancy of the troublous town of Guyandotte. We remained there but a few hours, a number of companies moving out to Camp Crittenden (as it was christened) the same afternoon the town was captured Camp Crittenden was situated on the Charleston road, about two miles from Guyandotte, and was pitched on the wheat field of Col. Everett, now in the secession army. His mansion adjoined the field, and his family was one of the few of that persuasion that did not flee when we landed.

It was proposed to make the attack at early daylight, but the deep silence observed along the route, together with the haits to send forward scouting parties, deferred their coming into sight of the enemy until the sun was two hours high. When they did catch a first glance, if there had been any fear in their composition, it would have overpowered him at once. The rebels were drawn up in line of battle on the brow of a high hill, apparently inaccessible on all sides, and commanding a view for two miles around of a magnificent level plain, with all its roads in full sight, until they dwindled into the distant forests.

Near the base of the hill wound the Gnyandotte river, and within pistol shot of their position was the only bridge which spanned it from the side on which we were advancing. Our brave boys took but one glance and passed on.

As they neared the bridge, they discovered a large body of eavalry on the road that wound around the base of the hill on which the enemy was ranged, retreating and dividing in order to intercept our flight-a natural interference, but a matter of opinion nevertheless. The rebels very considerately reserved their fire until the head of our column had set foot in the bridge, and then they fired a terriffic voiley, killing one man instantly, and wounding a number of

To escape this terrible shelving fire, our men were double-quicked into the covered bridge, where the hullets pelted, pattered and whistled like a leaden hail storm. They rushed onward, however, until they halted with such a sudden shock, that it sent the whole column into disorder. The planks of the bridge had been removed on the opposite side, and the mule on which the guide was mounted had fallen through, and he barely escaped sharing its destruction, by

The rebels encouraged by our delay at the fearful impediment, broke into wild shouts and cheers. Fired by their assurance of victory, our boys could be restrained no longer; they answered with a terriffic yell, some ran to the path-holes of the bridge, and discharged their muskets at the made a dash in single file across the bare stringers and rafters of the bridge, followed by company D (Woodward Guard), and the remaining companies. As they emerged from the bridge, the rebels flanked and changed front from the mouth of the bridge to the road which encircles the base of the hill, and sent another bitter volley at our men, which, luckily, was aimed too high, and did but little havoc. Our men by this time had all cleared the bridge, in total disorder, but blazing with excitement, yelling and leaping ahead like madmen. They turned suddenly up the side of the hill at a charge bayonets, and literally dragging themselves up by bushes and jutting turi, they cleared it in a few minutes, rushed at the enemy, who had, as they commenced heir ascent, fired again with effect. It was their last volley. As the glistening bayonets gained the brow of the hill and met their wavering gaze, and those yells continued, which meant victory if there had been a thousand opposed, the enemy sway ed for a moment, a leap was made from their rear and flank, and then the whole body scattered like sparks from a pin-wheel, down the rear of the hill, streaming in every direction in the fields below, at full speed, with white faces, and an impulse of feet which I heard compared to the fright of a hundred horses in a configration. Our men were too breathless for pursuit, but they cheered as men who have couquered only can cheer, and planted immediately the stars and stripes on the summit of the hill. and their commander, Col. Mansfield, was hit and fell from his horse, but was immediately seized and carried off by his companions, as it is supposed others were.— They left but one on the field, an old grayhaired man, whom we are informed impressed into the service, as many of his companions had been. He was taken care of by our troops, but died in the afternoon.

The victorious battalion, when the rebels had disappeared, marched through the town with banners flying, and band playing airs which the inhabitants probably never hoped to hear again. The Woodward boys planted their flag on the cupola of the court hourse, and seemed to regard as a coincidence, that precisely two menths after it was presented it was streaming from the spire in one of the hot-beds of secession. The force of the rebels in the engagement was about 600; our detachment consisted exactly of 331 men, about twenty of each of the five companies engaged being left behind on guard duty. The writer can candidly say that the attack and capture of this post was but little short of a miracle. Nothing but the desperate rush up the hill and the absence of bayonets on the enemy's pieces saved our troops from being slaugh tered. The rebels thought (and any inqui rer would think the same thing,) that the hill was accessible only from the rear, a distance of eleven hundred yards from the bridge, and calculated that by the time we could reach that, their flank fire with rifles would thin us out to such an extent that would thin us out to such an extent that the cavalry could easily finish us; but their surprise lasted too long, and when they left, their dragoons ended a masterly inactivity by a hasty disappearance.

The News from the Army.

The despatch published yesterday stating that the rebel battery at Bull Run, had been stormed by the Fire Zonaves with a loss of 150, killed and wounded, was untrue. The battery was not stormed at all, but remains | it Alexandria. He inquired of the one who in the possession of the enemy. It appears that Gen. Tyler's column moved forward, on Thursday, at four o'clock through Cenher. "Why, then, does not the lady berself terville to Bull Run, about three miles west ask for the pass?" said the officer. Upon for the purpose of reconnoitering and if this the "lady" answered for herself, that practicable, getting a force around Manassas Junction upon the Manassas Gap railroad, to turn Gen. Beauregard's flank. The self, the officer composedly replied that "he enemy appear to have been fully aware of had been reared and had lived in a section the object, and the necessity of preventing it, and hence they resisted in large force, opening upon our troops several concealed batteries. The skirmish was severe, resulting in the loss on our side of fifty killed and sixty wounded, and a large loss to the enemy, the number not known.

Our troops, not being in sufficient force, consisting chiefly of the Michigan 2d and New York 12th, retired from the contest for the battery, and the enemy ceased firing. The federal troops stood up manfully under the cross-firing of the enemy's batteries, and repulsed a bayonet charge from superior numbers.

There was no battle yesterday, the day being syent in determining the enemy's pcsition, the location of batteries, &c., preparatory to an onward movement to-day or tomorrow.

There was great excitement at Washington, and a large number of members of congress repaired to Manassas yesterday. So many left that there was little business done | tempted vindications of Emory, that pubin either house.

It can hardly be possible, as is rumored, that Gen. Patterson has permitted Johnston and his forces to leave Winchester and form a junction with Beauregard. It would require a march of sixty miles on the part of Johnston before reaching the Manassas Gap railroad, while Patterson was, on Thursday, within twenty miles of Winchester, where Johnston's army was supposed to be. His scouts ought to have known whether the rebel army was at the latter place or not. A great battle will probably be fought at

From Washington.

Correspondence of the New York Tribune. Washington, July 13, 1861. The heads of department cling as tenacously to the secession clerks in the departments as though members and senators had not been urging good men and true for the last three months, without avail. When compelled to part with them, not by the solicitations of loyal men, but by the actual departure of the traitors to join the confedby one of these traitors of his determination to leave for Richmond, whereupon the official, after warm expostulation, said :- | Minnehaba. Mr. -, if I were well enough acquainted with you, I would tell you you were a d-d fool." The clerk left, and is now with the confederates.

Two days ago a gentleman called on a lady whose husband and son are in the treasury department. A lad in the room playing, and the caller, thinking to "draw tia of Virginia, in order to give battle to out" the juvenile, remarked: "Well, my the federal army. little man, I suppose you could shoot a se-cessionist with your gan." The mother re-plied with igreat warmth: "No, he can't shoot a secessionist. We don't have any such talk in this house." The husband and other son are still pensioned upon the goverament, on the plea that "the public business would suffer" if their places were giv-

The secessionists seem to be blinded by a spirit of impotent rage. An officer informed me yesterday that he was called upon by two ladies, who desired passes to vismade the request if she desired it for herself, and was told in reply that she did not, but wished it for the lady who accompanied she "would scorn to ask for it," and poured out a torrent of abuse, such as only an irate female can. When she had exhausted herwhere great sespect was paid to the sex, but he must confess that his ideas of what was due to the ladies had received a great shock."

The spirit shown by this "lady" is the same as that shown by the "ladies" in Alexandria. They stay shut up in their houses, but as soldiers of the Union pass they actually spit upon them from their windows The secession mania seems to convert the women into spiteful furies, and the men into thieves and perjurers.

The letters of applicants for various offi-ces reveal singular idiosyncrasies. One writes: "Sir, you will discover that I have not seceded yet, but if you don't give me a situation soon my clothes will secode from off my back, and I shall be as naked as a buzzard." Another, if he gets a place, proposes "to repay the favor out of the proeeds of his first great invention," etc., etc.

The tears and entreaties of women sometimes prove effectual, as in the notorious case of Col. Emory. I believe that the secretary of war not only finally opposed the the permission to withdraw his resignation in the first instance, but also his recent reinstatement and promotion. But such influence as I have indicated above was effectual in another quarter. In all the atlished in a communication to the Tribune and others, I have see no satisfactory explanation of the circumstances attending is resignations left in the hands of two or three parties. The vague statement that he "was promoted by private considera-tions alone" does not meet the demands in his case. His family influence, however, is strong, and republican senators are besieged by entreaties and applications and equiv ocating explanations, in order to secure his

Senator Wilson, the chairman of the committee on military affairs, is desirous to see justice done not only in this but in the case of other appointments. He ably defended on the floor of the senate yester day the restriction reported by his committee on the aids to brigadier and major generals. The bill as reported requires their appointment "from the regular line of the The telegraph gives us, once in about a gives three to each major general and two week, a sensational paragraph, generally to each brigadier. Some opposition was made to this feature, whereupon the sena tor replied that "for his own part he would much prefer that they should be restricted together, are about to interfere in favor of to the regular line of the army, for he did not wish to have any more such sights as that recently exhibited of a staff, elegantly dressed, making a most soldierly appearance, but on the sound of the enemy's guns officers who possess their confidence," Men who have the ability to command do not need to come on to Washington, or should not need to intrigue and use backstairs influence, or come whining, having been repudiated by the people of their own sion as a plaster to cover their wounds.

. A dutchman who keeps a lager beer saloon up town, a day or two since came to the colonel of one of the regiments here and made a complaint in the following

Special despatch to the Chicago Tribunc.

CENTERVILLE, Va., July 19. sharp engagement was fought yesterday afternoon by the brigade under Col. Richardson, of Michigan, composed of the 2d and 3d Michigan, the 1st Massachusetts, and the 12th New York regiments. The action occurred at Blackburn Ford, three miles from Manassas, with a heavy force of rebels entrenched in the woods behind three masked batteries. Our troops first opened fire from two rifled cannon, sending out three hundred skirmishers to make out the enemy. Immediately a tremendous cross-firing of the batteries was opened, accompanied by thundering volleys musketry. This threw the New York 12th into some confusion, which broke our

After returning to the charge, and finding the enemy in full force and our advance unsupported by a proper artillery and cavalry force, Gen. Tyler, commanding the advanced division, ordered the army to fall back to Centerville, and encamp for the night. He says we have gained all we wanted at that point, as the object of attack was only to make a diversion, and feel the strength of the enemy. Our reserve is now beginning to arrive, and by Friday night Manassas will be confronted by an army of fifty thousand men. We lost thirty killed, and a few more wounded. Half the loss is from the Michigan troops, who behaved with magnificent courage, standing calm and unbroken under a pouring hail of shot, and returning the fire within pistol shot of the enemy's entrenchments. On the whole, the action creates more enthusiasm than discouragement in the ranks of the army.

Gen. Patterson, on routing the enemy from Bunker's Hill, proceeded direct to Charlestown, on the line of a railroad leading from Winchester to Harper's Ferry. He intended to move one division of his army from this point south to Berryville, on the Leesburg turnpike, hoping thereby to cut off the retreat of Gen. Johnston in that direction, and with another division march direct on Winchester.

But on arriving at Charlestown, General Patterson received information that led him to alter his plans. It now appears that the enemy are strong-

CENTERVILLE, Va., July 19. Vice President Hamlin, left the city this division—the first of the grand army—in pushing forward toward Buckland, fell in with a masked battery of the enemy, and a strong force of their troops, at a place call ed Bull's Run. A sharp engagement ensued, the 1st Mas-

Col. Richardson's brigade, the fourth, composed of Michigan, Massachusetts and New York troops, was thrown forward as skirmishers, which had the effect of waking up several other masked batteries.

One on the opposite side of the river opened on our lines with shell, causing some injuries to citizens who were in our rear, but killing no one.

The cannonading was kept up quite briskly until dark. The 2d Michigan, 12th New York, 69th New York, and Capt. Brackett's company of Second Cavalry were the principal for-ces engaged. The heaviest loss was sustained by the 12th New York.

Our loss is 34 killed and 53 wounded. At dark the firing ceased, and Gen. Tyler made a requisition on Gen. McDowell her coal falling short, she put into Key for reinforcements. West for a supply, on the 8th.

The enemy was largely reinforced during the evening. This morning the two forces remained quiet, in clear sight of each other, and in easy shooting distance. They have lain in this position all day, each party strengthening its position, but neither caring to make aggression. It is thought our shot took fearful effect

How the Privateer "Sumter" got out. -By the arrival of the U.S. steamer Massachusetts, commander Smith, information was received by flag-officer Mervine, lying off Fort Pickens, that the privateer Sumter had escaped from the mouth of the Mississippi river, on the 30th inst., while the Brooklyn was overhauling one of John Bull's merchantmen. The Brooklyn had got further away from the pass than was usual, when her officers discovered a vessel under full head of steam, coming down the river. The Brooklyn immediately put about with the view of heading off the vessel, but was too late, and so the Sumter escaped .-The Nisgara immediately made ready for sea, and sailed from Fort Pickens on the 3d, cruising off Cuba for three days, but

At twelve o'clock on the night of the 8th a special vessel arrived from Havana, bearng communication from Consul-General Shufeldt to Capt. McKean, stating that the Sumter had entered the harbor of Cienfuegos with seven American vessels, which she had captured on the south side of the island of Cuba. The Niagara immediately commenced taking in coal at a rapid rate, and was to sail from Key West accompanied by the Crusader, Lient.-commanding Craven, for Cienfuegos, where he hopes to find the Sumter, and seize her or blockade her in the port. It is my opinion, however, that the Sumter has already left, and the next we shall hear is that she has captured one of our California steamers.

A LOYAL JUDGE.—The country will read with much pleasure the accounts from St. Louis of Judge Catron's unflinching fideliy to the constitution and union. charge to the grand jury, he repudiated the pretended right of a state to secode, and held that all citizens of the United States, no matter under what pretence, found in arms against the government, are guilty of treason, and should be so dealt with. Some of the would-be martyrs of the Camp Jackson capture, who are at the arsenal in durance, and who applied to Judge Catron for release by babeas corpus, were refused, and must take their chances elsewhere of purging themselves of treason. Judge Catron will be useful just now in Missouri, whither he has gone to hold a district court of the ] United States. Many mooted questions among the traitors in that state may be settled definitely-but perhaps not to their entire satisfaction.

Judge Catron is a citizen of the state of Tennessee, an early friend and associate of Gen. Jackson, by whom, we believe, he was placed on the supreme bench. He has a good share of the old hero's intrepidity, and all of his hatred for treason.

Judge Catron went recently to Nashville to hold the appointed term of the United States court in Tennessee, after the secession act of the legislature. He was warned by the marshal to desist, or his life would pay the forfeit. The intrepid judge commanded the marshal to do his duty in preparing for and opening the court, and spare himself all care of the judge's life. The marshal then confessed himself afraid to discharge his duty, and flatly refused. And he and other subordinates declined to act; and so Judge Catron failed to hold his court in Tennessee. But he will hold it there not long hence.—N. Y. Times.

Gen. Butler learning the fact, has seized her again for a second breach of the blockade, and for rendering assistance to the enemy .-- Cor. N. Y. World.

A SPLENDID PERGRATION .- The Hon. Joseph Holt concluded a glerious speech in Louisville, on Saturday evening last, with

The movement for this purpose will be lade to-morrow.

The health of the troops under General pickets extended as far as Neosho, 30 miles north of Camp Walker.

Description of Camp Walker. church" of Washington.) The special occasion of the sermon, I understood, was the open refusal of one of the most influential ladies of the congregation to pray for the President-she rising from her knees during the recital of that special prayer, and resuming her posture again at its con-Jefferson City; will encamp outside the clusion, in such a way as to make her dissent universally remarked.

The preacher's doctrine was simply that the President, as "one in authority," W83 to be prayed for, anyhow, whatever his private character or policy, or whether we agreed with him or not, or respected, or wished well to him. The text itself, he said. was first written under the reign of the uncoliest of Emperors, Nero, who subsequently slew the Apostle himself; and the Doctor took occasion to mention that there was one American President who had been fearfully profane, and another who had been a shameless drunkard, and that both these had been devoutly prayed for, in their time.

The obvious inference (that President

Lincoln was to be prayed for, on the same ground, simply as an exercise of Christian harity) was in accordance, I was told, with the supposed sentiments of Dr. Hall, he being of southern birth, and having strong sympathy with the southern cause; but i was strange (if I may record an outsider's impression) that a sermon of just that disparaging tenor should be preached to a congregation of whom one half were officers in uniform serving under Lincoln-the preacher intimating his disapproval, in fact cause for which they were to fight, but in-culcating upon them the Christian charity of praying for their mistaken Ruler, not withstanding!

To explain fully the significancy of Dr. Hall's position on this point, it should be stated that he is a man of more than ordinary ability, and personally so much esteemed as to exercise great social influence, over and above his pastoral authority. The rebel president, when in congress, was a new holder in his church, and Mrs. Jeff. Davis was a communicant. As I chanced to sit very near the vacant new, it was eas ier than it might otherwise have been to imagine what remembered faces were prob ably present to the Doctor's eye, as he dis coursed, looking in our direction.

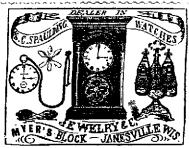

In contrast with what we know of the ut ter intolerance of Union sentiments at the south, it is worth while to record for history this and similar betravals of southern tro clivities among residents in our northern cities, and the more generous indulgence of them. Would a hundred officers have sat in church in Charleston and heard their own president thus covertly disparaged by a clergyman, secretly a Unionist, though be were at the same time to recommend Day s to be prayed for as a subject for Christian

But, to be in a city where one's country's cause is openly treated as the unfashionable thing-the beaux and belles of "good society" almost without exception favoring the enemy—is an experience still more curious than the above. And such I found to be the case in Baltimore. Our 2d regiment, now stationed about two miles from Georgetown, on the road to Fairfax Court House, has suffered some rom diarrhea and measles, but is now in good condition for action, save an unfortu nate difficulty with its colonel, who has been asked to resign by the commissioned officers, on the ground of inefficiency, but who declines. It is said the matter is to be compromised by his leaving the command in the hands of Col. Peck, returning home on a furlough. Adjutant Hunter, who was not elected in the manner prescribed in the regulations, has given place to Lieut. C. K. Dean, of the Grant County Volunteers, who has been elected adjutant by the regiment. Gen. King is here, and it is hoped when the other regiments come on he may be appointed brigadier in command.—Cor. Free Democrat.

New York Does a Big Thing, -- Wednes-day's New York Tribune says: "Last evening, the ordinance appropriating $500,000 | C. GRIMSHAW & CO., LIVERPOOL, for the families of the volunteers, was rati-fied by the board of aldermen, with the amendments adopted by the councilmen, and transmitted to the mayor for signature. The board also resolved to unite in the reception and welcome of all regiments re turning from the war, the expense thereof to be horne by the members of the common council in their individual capacity.'

An order for $40 on the first ward fand was directed to be issued to Martin Baron in payment of work done in said ward. H. A. Patterson was appointed police justice during the absence of H. N. Comstock.

The fire department committee were instructed to ascertain the amount of repairs needed on engine house No. 2, with power to make a contract for such repairs.

An ordinance to build sidewalks in front of lots 85 and 86, in the 2d ward, lying south of the railroad track, was introduced and read the first time.

The treasurer's monthly report was referred to the finance committee.

Constable Robertson was instructed to enforce the ordinance against the discharge of firearms and fireworks within the city limits, and the ordinance requiring the registering of dogs. Adjourned.

A SUPPER IN CAMP.—The supper given by the ladies of Dane county to the regiments in Camp Randall was a gay affaira grand holiday jubilee. The proceedings, according to the published reports, must have been a lively episode in the monotony of a camp life, and could not be otherwise than well enjoyed by all who participated in it. Many of the companies prepared tasteful decerations, that of the Janesville Light Guard being the elevation of an immense circle, in the center of which was the Wisconsin coat of arms, badger and all. This was a most elaborate piece of work, showing superior taste and skill .-The badger, like all the devices about the ground, was represented with publies, and presented a very fair animal. Around the circle were the words "Janesville Light Guard. Deeds not words." The whole was tastefully decorated with nuts, green and dry.

Lieut. Gov. Noble presented a banner to each regiment on behalf of the state. A "dance on the green," in the evening, concluded the ceremonies.

Many a brave heart will remember that supper, when the stirring events of an active campaign shall take the place of the peaceful duties of Camp Randall.

WHAT GENERAL M'CLELLAN ACCOMPISHED IN THREE DAYS.

NO. ONE.

BATTLE OF RICH MOUNTAIN. HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF OHIO, ) RICH MOUNTAIN, Va., July 12-9 A. M. ) Colonel E. D. TOWNSEND :-

We are in possession of all the enemy's works up to a point in sight of Beverly. We have taken all of his guns, a very large amount of wagons, tents, etc.—every thing that he had. A large number of prisoners were also taken, many of whom are wounded, and several of whom are officers. The all perhaps twenty killed and forty woundthe column under General Rosencruns, which turned the position of the enemy .-The mass of the rebels escaped through the woods, entirely disorganized. Among the prisoners is Dr. Taylor, formerly of the army. Colonel Pegram was in command of the enemy's forces.

General Rosencrans' column left camp resterday morning, and marched eight miles through the mountains, reaching the turnpike two or three miles in the rear of the enemy, and defeated an advance force and captured a couple of guns. I had a position ready for twelve guns near the main camp, and as the guns were moving up it was ascertained that the enemy had retreated.

I am now pushing on to Beverly. A part of General Rosencrans troops are now within three miles of it.

Our success is complete, and almost bloodless. The behavior of our troops in action, and towards the prisoners, is admirable.

G. B. McClellan, Major General Commanding.

> NO. TWO. THE OCCUPATION OF BEVERLY. Bevenly, July 13, 1861.

Col E. D. Townsend, Washington, D. C .: The success of to-day is all that I could desire. We captured six brass cannon, of which one is rifled, and all the enemy's camp equipage and transportation, even to The number of tents will probahis cups. The number of tents will proba-bly reach two hundred, and more than sixty wagons. Their killed and wounded will amount to fully one hundred and fifty, with at least one hundred prisoners, and more coming in constantly. I know already of ten officers killed and prisoners. Their retreat was complete. I occupied Beverly kenosha by a rapid march. Garnett abandoned his Dodge, camp early this morning, leaving much of Rock, his equipage. He came within a few miles | Winnebago, Several accounts were presented and re- of Beverly, but our rapid march turned him Racine, back in great confusion, and he is now re treating on the road to St. George.

Gen. Morris is to follow him up closely. I have telegraphed for the two Pennsylvania Regiments at Cumberland to join Gen. Hill at Rowlesburg. The General is concentrating all his troops at Rowlesburg, and will cut caf Garnett's retreat near West Union, or, if possible, at St. George.

I may say that we have driven out some ten thousand troops, strongly intrenched, with the loss of eleven killed and thirty-five wounded. Provisions returns found here show Garnett's force to have been ten thousand men. They were Eastern Virginians, Georgiaus, Tennessecaus, and, I think, Car-oliniaus. To morrow I can give full detail as to prisoners, &c. I trust that Gen. Cox has by this time drawn Wise out the Kanawha Valley. In that case I shall have accomplished the object of liberating Western Virginia. I hope the General in Chief

will approve of my operations.

G. B. McClellan, Major-General, Department of Obio.

> NO. THREE. THE SURRENDER OF COL. PEGRAM. HEADQUARTERS,

BEVERLY, Va., July 13-P. M. Col. E. D. Townsend, Washington, D. C.:
I have received from Col. Pegram propositions for the surrender, with his officers and remnant of his command-say 600 men. They are said to be extremely penitent, and determined never again to take up arms against the general government. I shall have near 900 or 1,000 prisoners to take care of when Col. Pegram comes in. The latest accounts make the loss of the rebels in killed some 150.

G. B. McClellan,

Maj. Gen. Department of Ohio.

NO. FOUR. THE BATTLE OF ST. GEORGE.

HUTSONVILLE, Va., July 14, 1861. Col. E. D. Townsend, Assistant Adj. Gen: General Garnett and his forces have been routed and his baggage and one gun taken. His army are completely demoralized.— Gen. Garnett was killed while attempting to rally his forces at Carrackford, near St.

We have completely annihilated the enemy in Western Virginia.

Our loss is but thirteen killed and not more than forty wounded, while the enemy's loss is not far from two hundred killed, and the number of prisoners we have taken will amount to at least one thousand. We have captured seven of the enemy's guns in all. A portion of Garnett's forces retreated but I look for their capture by Gen. Hill, who is in hot pursuit.

The troops that Garnett had under his command are said to be the crack regiments of Eastern Virginia, aided by Georgians, Tennesseeans and Carolinians. Our success is complete, and I firmly believe that secession is killed in this section of the country.

George B. McClellan, Major General U. S. A.

Poisonen.-The family of our townsman D. Casey, esq., were yesterday poisoned quite seriously by eating mushrooms. Mr Casey was fortunately absent trying a case, and thus escaped injury.

Medical aid was immediately summoned and we learn this (Tuesday) morning, that all the members of the family are considered out of danger .- Waukesha Freeman.

For the Daily Gazette. A Beggar Maid.

To be shunned by the proud. "But a penny," her hand was upraised, While her eyes were cast down; She was modest enough to be praised In her shabby old gown; So I gave, as before I too oft may have given.

She said this, and no more-"There's no begging in beaven." Janesville, July, 1861.

GEN. McDowell.-The New York Times Washington correspondent writes as

It is finally determined that the com mand of the troops advancing from this vi cinity shall continue with Gen. McDowell No. 20 S. State ex rel. Attorney General vs J. E. Messmore. Motion for rule to command to a major general, but thanks to rejoin or demur. Motion argued by S. U. the prompt and decisive protest of the A determined effort was made to give his command to a major general, but thanks to press, the calamity was avoided. It needs but a glance at Gen. McDowell to discover his fitness for commanding men and to di rect the movements of an army. He is a thorough soldier-conversant with all the theories of his calling, and having experience of actual service. He has that complete command of both the out-lines and details of his command, which alone can in sure success. If he can once get beyond the reach of red tape and routine, he will rival the brilliant achievements of Lyon, Sigel and McClellan. I hope he is to have opportunities for action. The labor he has endured in organizing the force now under his command, deserves the reward of opportunity-the opportunity to win on the field of battle a soldier's laurels.

In all but one arm—cavalry—the army under Gen. McDowell is most splendidly appointed. It is composed of New York, Pennsylvania, New England, Michigan, New Jersey, Minnesota and Wisconsin troops, and in these regiments are men of enemy lost many killed. We have lost in all nationalities—men whose nationalities will conduce to a determined rivalry of valed, of whom all but two or three belong to or. In front of these volunteers are heavy sections of flying artillery, (six and twelve pounders,) and some 3,000 regulars, including 600 marines and five companies of cavalry. Thus composed, equipped, provisioned and officered, what is to prevent this overwhelming force from sweeping over the obstructions at Manassas that the rebels have raised to defend their rebel government? Nothing but formula and waiting to dot i's and cross t's. Let us hope that it will break loose, and by its great weight gather that momentum which will prevent its arrest unall it has fulfilled its destiny, and swept repellion from the Potomac to the Gulf.

PIRACY.—As we have always supposed would be the case, it turns out that Jeff Davis' privateers are no respecters of persons. The cargo of sugar on board the John Walsh was shipped and owned by a Spanish house, and a certificate of the English consul at Trinidad to these facts was shown to the pirate captain, who thought to destroy the evidence by carrying it off. It is time for Spain to be looking out for pirates. This occurrence fully establishes the character of these marauders as pirates beyond the shade of a doubt.-Boston Journal.

It Tells you when to expect Rain! It Tells you when to expect Fair Weather!

It Tells you when to expect Wind! It tells you your height above the level of the sea, or as compared with your neighbors: Its use will add five per cent to the value of your crops by enabling you to secure them uninjured by storms!

orms: In England and on the Continent, where art and storms:

In England and on the Continent, where art and science, as applied in aid of fator, are in some branches at least far ahead of our own country, the Barometer is to be found in the hands of almost every husbandman. Its convenience and utility are just swell recognized as that of the clock.

Experience shows that wherever the Barometer has has been introduced in this country, it is equally satisfactory. In fact it is a necessity in our proverbially variable climate, for in Wisconsin alone millions of bushels of grain have been lost through the lack of some reliable means of foretelling the weather. Depending as it does upon the well known natural law that no atmospheric change can occur without destroying its equilibrium, thus producing a change in its density and weight, which, by its artion upon the sensitive surface of the mercury, is infallibly indicated by the rise or fall of the column, it will at once be seen that when properly constructed, the slightest change in the weather will be preceded by a change in the Barometer.

While to the farmer it is indispensable, offeutines eter. While to the farmer it is indispensable, oftentime

while to the farmer it is indispensable, oftentimes saving many times its cost in a single day, to the painter, builder, muster carpenter, brick-monider, and all other out-door workmen and mechanics, it is of scarcely less importance; and in short, there is no class in community to whom it would not sooner or later save many times its expense. Schools should not consider their apparatus complete without it.

We claim for this instrument the following merits in prefergios to all other instruments of the kind:

1st. Its cheapness. Until recently the Barometer has been so difficult of construction and so costly as to place it beyond the reach of all but the wealthy; but this instrument is sold so law as to be within the means of all, being by far the cheapest reliable Barometer extant.

eter extant.

2d. Its portability. A great difficulty in obtaining these instruments heretofore has been that they could not be transported, its extreme delicacy of construction rendering it necessary to be made and adjusted in the place where used; but by a simple arrangement this instrument can be rendered in a moment perfectly portable, so that it can be subject to the renglest usage without indury.

able, so that it can be subject to the renghest usage without injury.

3d. Its durability. No wood or leather is used about the eistern, which is wholly of cast iron, forming the most durable instrument of the kind possible.

4th. It is a Mercurial Cistern Barometer, which is the only form endorsed by the highest scientific authority. The ordinary cheap Barometers and all Anerold or dial-faced Barometers have been condemned as unreliable by the U.S. Coast Survey, and smithsonian Institute, Washington.

5th. Its simplicity. While it combines with all the real improvements that have been given to the instrument for two centuries, other and valuable improvements possessed by no other, it is the simplest possible form of Barometer.

6th. It is not affected by the change of temperature as are the Union and other Barometers, (thus rendering

They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past tenches, to become almost, if noticitizely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and enested statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital furice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage. Pumps, Without Engine,

In a half hour at ordinary pumping speed, I supply ny stock of from forty to fifty head of cattle and horses, with one of May's Pateut Pumps. Well 70 feet deep, ast 30 feet drilled. I can find no funit with this pump, and use it in place of another kind that was very often out of repair. Being composed of few and strang pieces, and built on scientific principles, I think they must be R. W. SCHENCE

Bradford, Rock county, Wis., January 29th, 1861. I supply with water 690 sheep, some 60 head of cattle and 10 head of horses, with May's Patent Pump. Its great strength, apparent durability and above all the great amount of water it raises in a short time, and its easy working, gives it with me a decided preference over any other pump in the market.

C. M. CLARK. Whitewater, Walworth Co., Wis., Jan. 31st, 1861. Since the lat of October last we have been using one of May's Patent Pumps, and it gives us entire satisfac tion. order and worked hard. Well 122 feet deep, 72 feet drilled in solid rock, and pump placed 101 feet from surface. Its great strength and simplicity pleases me, and am surprised and gratified with the large amount of water raised with little labor, 6 to 8 full strokes of the lever filling a bucket. I deem it one of the most valuable improvements of the age for raising water. JOHN TRACY. Center, Rock county, Wis., Feb. 27th, 1861.

Pumps. With Engines.

I am using one of May's Patent Pumps and Self-Regula ding Wind Engine (or Mill) on one of my farms near Janesville. Well 83 feet deep. Pump and mill use together, or may be separated in a moment. One to we hours daily is sufficient to pump water for my stock. Also, the pump works very easy by hand and is the first one, after trying different kinds, that gives me entire satisfaction. Having no bolts, packing, suction pipe, or pumping rods, and being made heavy and strong hey must be very durable. Janesville, Jan. 11th, 1861.

I am using a wind engine, and pump of May's patent in a well 65 feet deep. I deem them very valuable improvements, and agree with Mr. Hoskins in the above axpressed opinion. I had been using a Seneca Falls pump that did not answer my purpose.

WM. SOHENCK. Bradford, Rock Co., Wis., Jan. 24th, 1861.

Engines.

Rock Terrace, Wis., Feb. 6th, 1861. Since November 1858, I have been using one of May's Patent Wind Engines, pumping water from a well 166 feet deen. The Engine is a powerful one, often pump ing fifty barrels of water per day. It stands 110 rom the well and the power is communicated from the Engine to the well, underground. I deem these Engines of great value, saving a vast amount of hard manual labor, and as their merits are understood, think they must come into general use. These pumps and engines have taken first premium when exhibited in competition at state and county fair
